KARACHI, Pakistan (UPI)—Two U.S. mountain climbers, living on oxygen for 15 hours in a three-mile summit rush ahead of threatening monsoons, reached the world's second-highest unconquered peak July 4.

Andrew J. Kauffmann II, 37, of the U.S. foreign service at Paris, and Peter K. Schoening, 31, Seattle chemical engineer, hit the top of 26,470-foot Mt. Gasherbrum I.

New Evidence in Bribery Trial

Loans Made to Sommers From Socred Funds—Gray

Eversfield Accused Of $10,000 Blackmail

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Sommers bribery-conspiracy trial jury heard testimony Friday that a timber company executive accused in the case loaned money to former Lands and Forest Minister Robert Sommers from funds he collected for the Social Credit Party.

The testimony came from John M. Gray, brother of Pacific Coast Services Limited president H. W. Gray. He said his brother told him he had been collecting funds for the provincial Social Credit Party, that he had loaned money to the former minister from these funds and that former Pacific bookkeeper Charles Eversfield had tried to "blackmail" them—for $10,000 or a life partnership in the firm—because of it.

John Gray, in the witness box for the second day in the 48th day of the trial before Mr. Justice J. O. Wilson and jury of nine men and three women, told of a stormy scene in his brother's office in March, 1955.

BLACKMAIL ATTEMPT

It was then, he said, that the "blackmail" attempt was disclosed to him and S. W. Armistage, vice-president of the firm. He thought Armistage was going to throw Eversfield from the office. As for himself, he testified he was so mad he threw Eversfield's partnership proposal across the desk and said to him:

"You damn blackmailer, you want 40 per cent; you're thinking of no one but yourself."

He said, in his brother's words, Eversfield demanded $10,000 for documents the bookkeeper said he had which would show loans to Sommers. He testified that at one point H. W. Gray told him and Armistage to "keep cool fellow, it's not going to do the Social Credit party or minister any good to have it known that I loaned money to him."

BLOODY FOOL

John Gray said when his brother said this he had replied: "You bloody fool; you're always thinking of the Social Credit party; why don't you start thinking about yourself once in a while."

The upshot of the meeting, he testified, was that Eversfield's proposals were turned down and he was told to "get his cheque and get out."

Eversfield, who has been a star crown witness in the case, left the company in March, 1955. It is on hundreds of documents he took from Pacific files that the crown mainly bases its 20-charge indictment against Sommers, the Gray brothers and Charles D. Schultz.

Also charged are the C. D. Schultz Company Limited, Pacific Coast Services Limited, Evergreen Lumber Sales and B.C. Forest Products Limited.

SPLIT THOUSANDS

The prosecution alleges that Sommers, H. W. Gray and Schultz split thousands of dollars in bribe money which came from firms willing to pay for

Ferries May Run Tonight

Striking Seafarers' International Union men can be ready tonight to man the government-seized CPR B.C. coastal steamships.

They can be ready on half a day's notice or less after talks are held in Vancouver today between Robert Knowlton Smith, ferry service administrator, and SIU officials, Norman Cunningham, SIU port agent, Vancouver, said last night.

He said the union had received a note from Ottawa saying Mr. Smith was arriving in Vancouver today. Mr. Cunningham said the union would be ready for talks, and "whatever he tells us, we will do."

Fish Elude Youngsters

Fish were few off the Dallas Road breakwater yesterday as hundreds of Victoria boys and girls vied for prizes in the annual city playgrounds fishing derby. Two-pound ling cod hooked by John Gissinger, 14, was biggest fish taken. Tops among girl contestants was Kathryn Gardner, 11, of 1213 Juno. Story on page 2.—(Colonist photo by Jim Ryan.)

Hold Summit Here—John D.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker Friday night traced out a blueprint for a summit meeting within the UN Security Council and suggested that it be held in Canada.

He told the Commons that if it was decided by the participants that the meeting should be held in Canada they would be welcome.

OFFER REPEATED

Mr. Diefenbaker recalled that he made a similar suggestion in a letter to Premier Khrushchev of Russia last year.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the projected summit conference is the United Nations' "appointment with destiny."

"This meeting can be a crossroads for the future."

His blueprint for the preparations for a summit meeting would involve preliminary discussions of an agenda by the Security Council, meeting in special session.

OPEN MEETING

The heads of state would be invited for an open meeting at which they would make known their views.

The agenda should encompass the whole question of rising Arab nationalism and general Middle East problems.

After the heads of state had made known their views, the heads of the four or five major countries most directly interested would then retire for private deliberations.

INDIA, TOO

Mr. Diefenbaker said India, not a member of the Security Council, could be invited to attend.

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld of the UN would attend the private consultations of the big powers and make a report on the results to the Security Council.

ORDERS ON WAY

Mr. Diefenbaker said instructions are being issued to Canada's permanent representative at the UN Security Council, Charles A. Ritchie, to initiate immediately discussions with Mr. Hammarskjöld and representatives of other nations on his outline for a meeting.

Russians Mock U.S. Fleet

CAIRO (UPI)—The editor of the Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram quoted Soviet Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev as saying the U.S. Sixth Fleet in the Mediterranean could be easily destroyed and turned into "molten steel coffins" by Russian weapons.

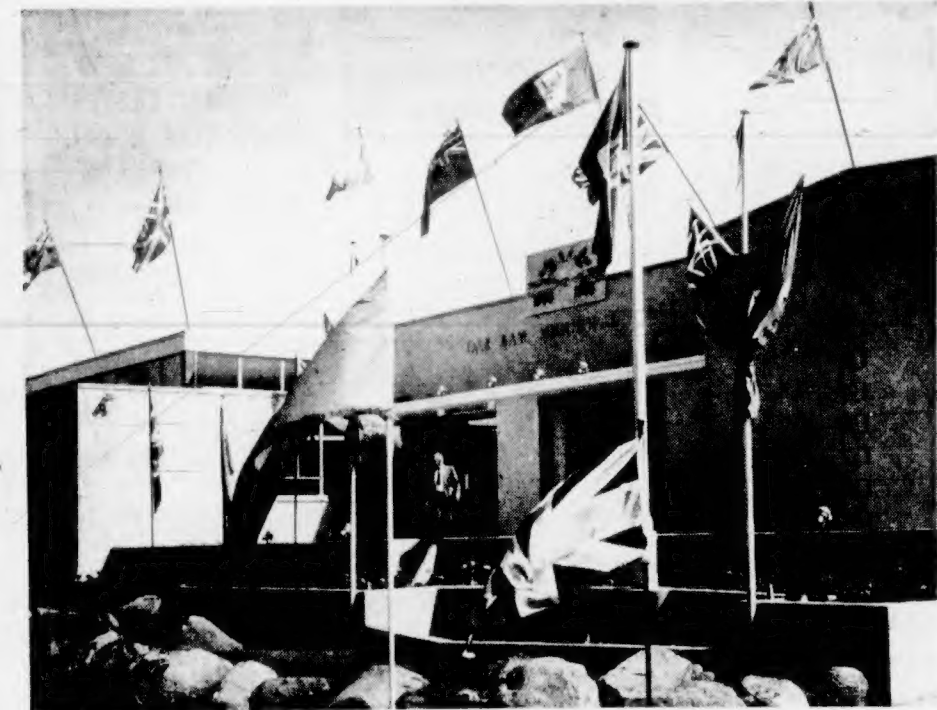

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI)—A U.S. Marine force landed nearly two weeks ago erupted between opposition and government forces. Reports said 14 persons were killed and another dozen wounded. U.S. forces were not involved.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Russia has charged Turkey with planning to attack Iraq "in a few days time" and has sharply warned the Turks against taking such action.

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y.—Israel has formally asked to take part in any summit talks on the Middle East and indicated that she would not be bound by any decisions taken without her participation.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker Friday night announced plans to negotiate exchanges of full diplomatic missions with Israel, Lebanon and Iran.

PEIPING—The Peiping People's Daily, which Thursday dismissed Britain's suggestion for summit talks at the United Nations Security Council as a "useless counter-proposal," has hailed Soviet acceptance of it as "a major step for peace."

New Oak Bay Hall Opened

New $185,000 Oak Bay municipal hall was opened before some 150 invited guests yesterday by Municipal Affairs Minister Wesley Black, Reeve Fred Norris and Ven. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns. Conducted tours in the evening were provided for the general public through the birch-paneled, green-plastered interior, a spacious and airy building featuring many windows and artistic outdoor landscaping.—(Colonist photo by Bud Kinsman.)

Knightly Gesture Costs Dream Shot

VANCOUVER (CP)—Four newspaper photographers passed up their dream picture here.

Princess Margaret appeared before them unexpectedly wearing a bathing suit loosely draped with a bright blue and white wrap.

They deferred to protocol, and lowered their cameras.

It happened Friday on the lawn at the home of Lieutenant-Governor Frank Ross when the Princess walked out to sun bathe.

"I am pleased to know that I am among friends," she told the cameramen. "I am pleased you appreciate my position."

Moon 'Trip' Next Month

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—The U.S. Air Force is planning to attempt its first lunar probe to the vicinity of the moon during the period next month when the moon is closest to earth, it was learned yesterday.

Reliable sources said man's first attempt to send a vehicle to the moon—unless the Russians try to beat the U.S. to the punch—would be made from Cape Canaveral during the few days when the moon makes its closest approach to the earth.

The moon, according to astronomers, will be closest to earth on Aug. 17, when the distance between the two bodies will be about 220,000 miles.

The probe, a small package of instruments designed to telemeter moon data back to earth, perhaps even the first pictures of the other side of the moon never seen from the earth, will take about two days for its journey.

The probe vehicle will be sent on its journey with a three-stage rocket, the first two stages of which are the Thor-Able missile recently tested at Cape Canaveral. The third stage has been developed separately.

VANCOUVER (CP)—Princess Margaret, stunning in a low-cut white and green satin evening dress, Friday night attended a ball given by Lieutenant-Governor Frank M. Ross and Mrs. Ross.

More than 600 invited guests, the majority of them Princess Margaret's age, were on hand at the ballroom of HMCS Discovery, Vancouver naval headquarters.

LOW NECKLINE

The dress was featured by a low neckline and a full crinoline skirt. Paniers of gathered satin were encircled by garlands of white lilac, green leaves and syringa blossoms.

Margaret's jewelry included a diamond tiara, five-strand pearl necklace, pearl earrings and a diamond clip fastened to the centre of the bodice. A white satin stole was draped over her shoulder.

TOTEM MOTIF

The Princess and her party proceeded to a royal dais then Dal Richards' band struck up "The Queen."

The ballroom was decorated in a totem motif, predominantly blue and white, and was dimly lit by starlights on the ceiling. Gladioli and tiny red rosebuds were featured in the floral arrangements.

TORCHES FLUTTER

The driveway into HMCS Discovery from Vancouver's Stanley Park was outlined by torches which fluttered in a light breeze.

The Princess danced the first five dances, the first with the lieutenant-governor, the second with Lieut-Col. C. W. Woodward, about 30, member of the famous B.C. family, and the next three with Cmdr. Gar Dixon, aide-de-camp to the lieutenant-governor.

LAUGHED, JOKED

The Princess seemed completely at ease and laughed and joked with the rest of her party on the royal dais between dances.

As she was coming off the floor with Col. Woodward, the Princess spotted a member of the Press taking notes, turned to him, smiled and said: "Be careful what you say now."

MAMBO WITH DIXON

The third dance was a mambo—the tune "Tiquila"—with Cmdr. Dixon.

The Princess' next dance with Cmdr. Dixon was slow and dreamy. It was followed by one of her favorites—"When the Saints Go Marching In."

After her spirited round of the floor, the Princess stopped to straighten her hair and her tiara, then took time out for a glass of Scotch and a cigarette.

The ball was the first event at which the Princess had an opportunity to mix with people of her own age since she arrived in B.C. She was to board a CPR royal train for Banff immediately after the ball at the end of her two-week centennial year visit to the province.

The guest list for the ball contained 600 guests—and a four official said almost all were in their mid-20s.

"MY FAIR LADY"

Music was by Dal Richards, who chose some of Margaret's favorite music. The program included selections from the musical scores of "Gigi" and "My Fair Lady," and a number of Latin-American tunes.

From "My Fair Lady" Richards chose "On the Street Where You Live," "I've Grown Accustomed to Her Face," and "I Could Have Danced All Night."

SUCCULENT SUPPER

A midnight buffet supper included suckling pig, curried shrimp, salmon, turkey, glazed chicken, salads and garlic bread.

Ferry Legislation Becomes Law

OTTAWA (CP)—Parliament's unprecedented legislation for government operation of the CPR's strikebound West Coast steamship service became law late Friday.

The government's emergency measure, introduced in the Commons Thursday and passed by that body in one sitting was hustled through the Senate Friday.

It got prompt Royal assent from Mr. Justice C. H. Locke of the Supreme Court of Canada, acting for Governor-General Massey.

Government expectations are that service will be restored today.

The government announced its administrator is Robert K. Smith, former chairman of the national harbors board, former deputy minister of marine and former Conservative member of the Commons for Cumberland, N. S. Mr. Smith, 70, now works in the office of Revenue Minister Nowland, Nova Scotia's representative in the cabinet.

He lives in Ottawa and was flying from here to Vancouver Friday night. An official said it was hoped service would start shortly after he arrived there this morning.

The bill provides that striking employees of the CPR's B.C. steamship service—about 320 workers—are to return to work immediately with an eight-per-cent wage increase while the company and the Seafarers' International Union CLC negotiate a new agreement.

Echo from the Past

In Brief

KENORA, Ont.—Twelve American tourists and two Canadian pilots escaped serious injury Friday when two float-equipped planes collided and fell upside down into Lake of Woods as they came in to land.

Forest service officials said yesterday that the absence of strong winds was the only thing saving B.C.'s forests from a "real catastrophe." There are now 288 fires burning, including 55 in the Vancouver forest district.

VANCOUVER—A provincial mining tax designed to discourage export of mineral ores was ruled invalid Friday by the B.C. Supreme Court. Provincial government officials said that the government would probably appeal.

TORONTO—The entire Toronto militia will be on duty during Princess Margaret's visit—not for ceremonial duties, but to hold back crowds during a parade. They won't be paid, either.

HALIFAX—A crippled Pan American World Airways plane with 53 persons aboard landed safely at Argentia, Nfld., on three engines early today escorted by a fleet of rescue aircraft.

KELOWNA—A further adjournment was granted in the case of five young Doukhobor men charged in connection with terrorist activities.

OTTAWA—Preliminary construction work on the South Saskatchewan River dam will start in about four weeks.

CAPE CANAVERAL—The air force abandoned the south Atlantic search for Winkle the space mouse.

Wife's Advice Recalled By Choked-Up Chief

MONTREAL (CP)—Persuaded by a dearly-remembered voice from his long-ago, M. J. Coldwell agreed Friday to stay on a while more as national leader of the CCF party he has already served so many years.

There was a catch in Mr. Coldwell's voice, a sudden moistness in many eyes, as he made known his decision at the closing session of the party's three-day national convention.

ONLY A MINUTE

He spoke only a minute or two. Then his voice choked up, and he resumed his seat.

Only once before had he ever faced such a serious decision, the 69-year-old leader told the delegates. That had been whether to accept leadership of the Farmer-Labor party formed 26 years ago in Saskatoon.

INCURABLE ILLNESS

At the same time, he had just learned that his wife, who died in Ottawa while he was away campaigning in the 1953 federal election, was stricken by an incurable and crippling illness.

His wife had made the decision for him. He said she told him: "You can't let those people down."

STANDING OVATION

"And perhaps," he added, and this seemed all that his feelings would allow him further to say, "It is that echo from the past that has made this decision possible."

There had been a standing ovation when he began. It was more prolonged when he sat down.

Mr. Coldwell said it had been his determination to retire since long before the March 31 election, in which he lost the Commons seat of Rosemount-Biggan he had held since 1935.

He has been national leader of the party since 1942, succeeding its founder, J. S. Woodsworth. He became its house leader in 1940. Mr. Coldwell leaves next Thursday for Britain and the continent on a vacation.

MILD ATTACK

He suffered a mild heart attack in February, 1957, which influenced his original decision to retire.

What Causes Slack Season?

The provincial and federal governments will share in a $20,000 study of seasonal unemployment in B.C. Labor Minister Lyle Wicks announced yesterday.

It will be conducted by the B.C. Research Council. Purposes are:

1. To bring together the available information and data relevant to both seasonal employment and unemployment in B.C. with comparisons with other parts of Canada;
2. To provide a thorough analysis of the causes and special characteristics of seasonal fluctuations in employment as they occur in B.C.; and
3. To provide an indication as to where and how possible remedies should be sought.

Mr. Wicks said Gordon Shrum of the research council had suggested that the job could not be done within two years but at this point both governments were only prepared to share in the cost of the study for one year.

A dinosaur of prehistoric times, which might weigh 40 tons, had a brain weighing not more than one pound.

A Safety Valve

THERE is a saving grace about the expected UN summit meeting on the Middle East situation that perhaps is worth notice. Premier Khrushchev's quick and dramatic suggestion of a conference of major power leaders indicates more than opportunism well displayed; it suggests also that Russia flinches from direct action against the West in circumstances as dangerous as those created by the landing of American and British troops in Lebanon and Jordan respectively. The West has probably always been over-limbed in its fears of a clash of arms with Soviet military power.

While attention is diverted to UN handling of the Middle East the situation there should simmer down. Even if nothing of striking value eventuates from a UN summit conference the delay imposed thereby lessens the explosive content of the troop landings. While nations talk, regardless of disagreement, no fresh outbreak of violence is likely. For Jordan particularly the breathing space can be gainful.

The proposed conference could be construed even as a face saver for Mr. Khrushchev, since he stands to profit most from it, in propaganda value if nothing else. It absolves him from any other step needful to maintain Soviet prestige among the Arab nations, and already he has won plaudits for the idea. As usual he took the wind out of Western sails by suggesting the talks, although it was Prime Minister Macmillan who broadened the scope by proposing they be held under the aegis of the UN.

Whether this is a good thing remains to be seen. It means public sessions that doubtless will enable such a wily master of show as Mr. Khrushchev to score many propaganda points, especially as he is not inhibited by the necessity of the Kremlin keeping its word. Instead of a face-to-face summit conference in private, wherein perhaps some frank speaking might be beneficial, the substitute of a free-for-all in the Security Council can scarcely offer any real easing of Middle East problems.

One can understand President Eisenhower's reluctance to engage personally in the discussions, even if he has gone along with the suggestion. He is not equipped either by health, temperament or dialectical skill to match wits with Mr. Khrushchev. Probably Mr. Macmillan will have to carry most of the ball for the West, and fortunately he is not easily discomfited. The addition of such contrasting and disputative figures as De Gaulle, Nehru and Nasser, not to mention the heads of the Arab states affected, suggests a Security Council meeting the like of which has never been seen before.

Above all, however, the summit talks will provide a safety valve. While they are going on there should be a quieting of the Middle East scene itself. That alone is worth the dubiety which unfortunately has attended all such postwar conferences, and supposedly there is always the chance this one may be different.

Yachtsmen, Stay on Board!

THE current forest closure order banning travel within half a mile of all forested or wooded areas imposes far more stringent restraint on movement than is generally understood. It applies to travel not just by road but by every means, including water; and there are no exceptions other than at designated and supervised provincial parks or camp sites.

Boat owners, therefore, who believe themselves to be exempt from the travel ban should quickly disabuse themselves of that dangerous notion. Until there is relief from this prolonged drought and the extreme hazard accompanying it, the Forest Service has had to put a virtual stop—regretfully but firmly—to the now widely popular pastime of summer cruising among the islands unless the cruising parties are prepared to spend all their time on board, or restrict their landings to public wharves and marinas. With the exception of the new park at Sidney Spit there is not one island in the entire region from here to Prince Rupert where beach landings are permitted.

Close to home, the ban on travel means that it is prohibited not merely to light fires but even to go ashore at such places as Smugglers' Cove on Chatham Island, much favored by local boat owners as a picnic spot, particularly at weekends. A great many of them apparently do not realize this.

As with travel by road, provision is made for local rangers to issue permits for landings at specified places for approved purposes. Such permits are rarely given, however, and usually only when the applicants are known to the rangers. Unauthorized landings are liable to severe punishment, and even the holder of a permit may be held responsible if a fire should occur at the place where he or his party goes ashore.

Forest Service officials are the first to deplore this curtailment of pleasure, but it is an illuminating measure of the urgent necessity for it that the B.C. Power Commission has been compelled to suspend all work on the Ash River project, now at a stage of construction where delay is critical and may prove disastrous.

Shockingly Bad Example

THE wild journey at speeds sometimes in excess of 85 miles an hour which RCMP escorts gave Princess Margaret through the Fraser Valley on Thursday was unnecessary, extremely dangerous, and plain stupid.

What if the cavalcade was a few minutes behind schedule? Is the maintenance of a timetable so vitally important as to warrant imperiling the life of Her Royal Highness, of officials travelling in the convoy, and of bystanders along the route? At such speeds anything can happen. A puncture, momentary loss of control, the sudden emergence of unauthorized traffic, a child or a dog running out into the road, even something as commonplace as a driver's sneeze could have caused disaster. A smash-up at 85 miles an hour or more gives those involved small chance of survival, and the Princess herself could have been one of them.

This practice of conveying distinguished personages from place to place during official visits at speeds far in excess of the legal limit or the dictates of common safety cannot be too strongly condemned. The RCMP is not above the law, and the authority of anyone to permit such speeds on occasions other than those of emergency is open to challenge. Besides taking risks with the lives of Princess Margaret and all others in the cavalcade or by the roadside, the RCMP set a shockingly bad example for the driving public, repeatedly warned by the very same force of the terrible danger of high speeds.

Interpreting the News

Neutrality for the Arabs?

By GEORGE KITCHEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

A STATUS of permanent neutrality for the Arab states, their independence guaranteed by East and West, is one of the positive achievements that could come out of a summit conference.

This is one of the ideas being kicked around in diplomatic circles as a means of returning political stability to the Middle East and enabling Britain and the United States to withdraw their troops from Jordan and Lebanon.

The idea would be to model the Middle East settlement somewhat along the lines of the arrangement by which the big powers in 1955 restored independence to Austria and guaranteed her independence in return for a pledge of permanent neutrality. Both Russia and the West have abided by the 1955 treaty.

If such an agreement were reached for the Middle East, it presumably would have to include provision for some sort of UN force, armed or unarmed, to move in to fill the vacuum created by the withdrawal of the Anglo-American forces.

It also presumably would have to come out of the private—as opposed to public—talks that take place when the Big Five powers meet at the UN Security Council in New York. Utterances at any public sessions likely will be made solely for public consumption, on both sides. It is in the closed-door talks that the hard bargaining, and give-and-take, can be expected.

The major problem is to find some means of getting the British and American forces out of the area without leaving Jordan and Lebanon open either to subversion or open aggression. The simplest method is to replace these forces by UN troops. Russia has opposed this proposal to date in the Security Council.

The second problem, almost inseparable from the first, is to return political stability to the Middle East. That is where an East-West guarantee of independence, coupled with neutrality, may be developed.

Another major question that might be tackled is the shipment of arms into the Middle East by both sides, either to governments in power or to rebellious groups within the Middle East states. This long has been regarded as one of the major contributing factors to instability in the area.

If it attempts to achieve a general Middle East settlement, the summit conference must also take up the issue of psychological warfare, which includes the constant outpourings by the government-controlled radio stations in Cairo and Damascus of incitements to the Arab peoples to revolt or assassinate their leaders.

To halt such subversion, the Big Five must have the agreement of Egypt's Gamal Abdel Nasser and his United Arab Republic. That may prove to be the hardest agreement of all to obtain.

"If it works out, it'll be a nice change"

The World in Space

Tower of Babel

By LEWIS MILLIGAN

"THE World in Space" is the title of a new book which tells "The Story of the International Geophysical Year," by Alexander Marshack. It is typographically a spacious book with plenty of space between the lines and expansive illustrations. That word, "geophysical," is enough to scare the average reader who is looking for something light to read during the holidays. But the story is illuminated with fiery blaze of the sun, the gentle rays of the moon and the myriad fixed and unfixed stars of the universe.

"It's a small world!" is a common exclamation of surprise; but little do we know how little this world is until we contemplate the vastness of space and realize that ours is an insignificant orb amid the innumerable solar systems of the Milky Way. We really did not need the modern geophysicists to remind us of that fact, for, before Galileo, Job said, "He hangeth the world upon nothing," and the psalmist considered the starry firmament and said, "What is man that Thou art mindful of him?"

Indeed, it is remarkable how much modern science owes to thinkers down through later times who did not call themselves scientists. Isaac Newton at the end of his life regarded himself as only a boy playing with pebbles on the seashore, "whilst the great ocean of truth lay all undiscovered before me." And yet the latest feat of science was based upon Newton's speculations on what would happen to a cannon ball if it were fired with enough force to leave the earth. At that Newton wrote:

"The greater the velocity by which (a cannon ball) is projected, the further it goes before it falls to earth. . . . If we now imagine bodies projected parallel to the horizon at greater and greater heights. . . . according to their velocity they will go on revolving through the heavens in those trajectories, just as the planets do."

So the idea of an artificial satellite is not new. The boasted launching of the Soviet Sputnik was based upon the mathematical formula worked out nearly 300 years ago by an Englishman. (Tell it not in Moscow, whisper it not in the wastes of Siberia!)

Modern science and mechanics owe everything they have accomplished to the preliminary explorers of the universe, and especially to the disclosures of the power of electricity and the secrets of the atom in the 19th century. There is plenty of room for further investigation and the application of those powers within this planet and its atmosphere. The moon has been up there a long time and has served us well as the "effulgent lamp of night" and tide-operator, and scientists know what it is composed of. They don't have to go to the moon to prove that it is not made of green cheese.

These geophysicists tell us we can learn more about cosmic rays, the cause of the aurora borealis, and the composition of the ionosphere by rocket excursions. Yet at the same time they are polluting the upper and lower atmosphere with deadly nuclear fallout, which may destroy the human race before they can make use of that knowledge.

It is all very interesting from the news point of view, but science is in danger of over-reaching itself in its curiosity.

Man needs to recall the fate of the Tower of Babel.

Reports from Ottawa

THERE'S a marriage in the making here in Ottawa that is well worth reporting, even among the excursions and alarms of international political conflict.

It's a marriage between the nation's architects and the nation's home builders. The hope of the matchmaker is that this union will produce issue vastly superior, both functionally and aesthetically, to the collections of hen houses which pass for homes in many parts of suburbia.

The matchmaker is the government. Or, more specifically, it is Stewart Bates, president of Central Mortgage & Housing Corp., who is prodding the architects and builders into each other's arms.

Bates is the high voltage wire of the government's housing organization. His achievements in reducing staff and increasing efficiency in CMHC have brought him fame, perhaps some envy, and probably not too much love among other administrators in the government service.

Bates recently addressed the Royal Architectural Institute of Canada in an effort to lure its members into the marriage he has in mind. The gist of what he told the RAI is that Canadians will be building 3,500,000 homes in the next two decades, with an annual investment of $1,500,000,000 even at 1958 building costs, and that this growth should not be allowed to "run wild" without close architectural direction.

"We believe it is more important to design good houses than to design good cars," he said. "It is more pressing to achieve a better environment in our suburbs than to engineer advanced parking facilities for factories. The safe flow of children between home and school is as vital as the efficient flow of work in the assembly line."

These are significant words spoken in the name of CMHC, an organization which only a few years ago was so prejudiced against design innovation that it shunned modern architecture. Conventionalism was then the hallmark of CMHC—and until Bates took over, CMHC was in effect sentencing the Canadian people to life terms in conventional boxes.

In his speech Bates didn't blame builders greatly for bypassing architectural services as an avoidable expense. The truth is, he pointed out, that most architects are interested almost to the exclusion of housing, in landing big commercial, governmental or institutional jobs. Few seek to make careers in housing design.

Bates wants the architects to seize the challenge and help lift the faces of our cities and towns. He made the RAI a proposition: Undertake a thorough study of the problems, he said. Set up what would amount to a royal commission on residential design in suburban areas, a commission strictly under RAI auspices. Channel "the full power of creative minds" against the problems. We know much of our housing design is poor. Tell us what is wrong with it, and how we can improve it. And he promised to try to get the government to pay the not inconsiderable costs of such a professional royal commission.

Bates is still awaiting the RAI reply to his enticing ultimatum—for there is a "put up or shut up" quality to his challenge. But he is confident that by Christmas a full-blown housing design probe will be under way, sponsored by the RAI and financed out of a $5,000,000 research kitty that CMHC has had for years—and hitherto scarcely tapped.

The Packsack

OF GREGORY CLARK

THE trainman on the transcontinental on which I was riding across Canada turned out to be a director of the sportsmen's conservation association in the mid-Canada city which is his division point. I was enquiring, as we sat in the bay window of the club car at the end of the train, about the number of moose killed by trains.

From this the conversation turned to the habit of sportsmen, both native and visitors from south of the border, who are trophy hunters, who go in quest of a noble bull moose, take only his head and antlers, and leave the rest of the carcass, perhaps a thousand pounds of carrion, lying where it fell in the bush.

"Well," said the trainman, "I think we have to be intelligent about that. We always speak of the waste of all that meat. Actually, it is not wasted. In fact, not a pound of it is wasted. It feeds a score of different species of animal and bird. It is perhaps the difference between life and death to a whole community of creatures, from bears to whisky jacks, from foxes to mice. We forget that everything eats everything else in the wilds. That bull moose was bound to die one day, sooner or later; and if he was an old buster, it would probably be sooner. And he would be the natural food of the creatures that got him this year, instead of the year after next, or whenever he came to his natural end. In the wilds, nothing is wasted."

That was a conservationist speaking.

With the Classics

When I was young?—Ah, woeful When!
Ah! for the change 'twixt Now and Then!
This breathing house not built with hands,
This body that does me grievous wrong,
O'er very cliffs and glittering sands,
How lightly then it flashed along!—
Like those trim skiffs, unknown of yore,
On winding lakes and rivers wide,
That ask no aid of sail or oar,
That fear no spite of wind or tide!
Nought cared this body for wind or weather
When Youth and I lived in't together.

Broken Pledges

Russia's New Empire

By W. N. EWER, from London

MR. KHRUSHCHEV'S appearance in the obvious role of "overlord" at the congress of the East German Socialist Unity (in fact Communist) Party has marked another step toward the complete incorporation of East Germany in the new Russian empire in Europe.

Three things were apparent, both from his own speech and from those of Herr Ulbricht and other East German leaders. The first is that the Soviet leaders are not prepared to agree to German reunification, except as a Communist state. The second is that the economy of East Germany is to be more and more closely integrated with those of the Soviet Union and the other satellites. The third is that there is to be rigorous repression of any tendency to "revisionism" which means of any deviation from the lines of policy or thought on any subjects which are currently laid down in Moscow.

It is, except in name, annexation, political, economic and cultural. . . . and it has to be noted that it is the culmination of a gradual but deliberate process of the breaking of pledge after pledge.

At Potsdam in 1945 the Soviet government pledged itself to treat Germany as an "economic whole." It pledged itself to set up a democratic system of local government in the Soviet zone. It promised "freedom of speech, press and religion." It promised that all democratic parties, with rights of assembly and public discussion" should be allowed.

The first pledge was broken from the beginning. Within a few weeks of the Potsdam Agreement an economic "iron curtain" was dropped between East and West Germany, all intercourse between the Soviet zone and the rest of the country reduced to a minimum.

The next step was the culmination of all the independent democratic parties and the suppression of those guaranteed rights of freedom of speech, press and assembly.

The Social Democratic Party, which unquestionably had the support of an overwhelming majority of East German workers, was, under coercion, broken up. The minority was merged in the Communist-controlled "Socialist Unity Party," the majority prohibited from existing as a separate party. Similarly other democratic parties were disrupted, and only completely subservient remnants allowed to survive under the old names.

Already, within a year or two, the foundations had been laid for the coming Communist regime. The promises of the "historic document of Potsdam" were in the waste paper basket.

The pretence of Soviet acceptance of the principle of German reunification was preserved until after the "summit" conference of 1955. That, as one can now see clearly, was a bait held out to the West Germans. They were offered the hope of reunification—for which every German must long—if only they would break with the West; and also, Herr Ulbricht himself made clear, give up their "bourgeois" freedom and accept the kind of regime which their brothers in the east had been compelled to accept.

That hope of bringing all Germany under Communist control has not been abandoned. Under the influence of Marx and Lenin, the Soviet leaders still look on Germany as the key to Europe and Europe as the key to the world. At the moment the tactical policy is to consolidate Russian power in East Germany—and to try to make it, at the same time, an attractive example to the West.

Hence the lavish promises of Soviet economic aid, promises of rapid improvement in the standard of living of the East German population.

They are promised that the output of both industry and agriculture will be doubled; that the housing program is to be increased twentyfold; that by 1961 the living standard of East Germany will be higher than that of West Germany. The Communists are always generous in promises.

But how all this is to be achieved is another matter. It is a matter of Communist record that last year such key industries as coal, electric power, heavy engineering, building, chemicals, all failed to reach their allotted "targets" and that nearly 25 per cent of the national industries were operating at a loss. From that to the doubling of output in a year or two seems an improbable development.

Meanwhile East German workers continue to express their own views on the subject in the only way left to them. More than 15,000 Germans still escape from the "People's Republic" to West Germany every month. Most of them are workers.

But to appreciate the full significance of it all, and that by no means only for Germans, one needs to turn back the pages of recent history; and to contrast the promises of Yalta and Potsdam with the realities of 13 years later.

Letters to the Editor

Divided We Fall

There was a letter in the July 23 Colonist by Rosemary Hamilton, "Incendiary World." The lady's point of view is understandable in regard to the nuclear distribution of humanity, if a third world war should develop, suggesting that Canada should not back up America in her attitude towards defending her interests in the Middle East.

Has it ever occurred to her and people who have similar utterly ruthless man, namely Khrushchev, and his picked supporters? He is just juggling with the hesitancy of the democratic world, because he is not quite certain of Russia's complete superiority with atomic and nuclear weapons.

When he is certain of this, democracy will be wiped out completely if we shilly-shally amongst ourselves. It is a terrifying situation, I admit. But together we stand, divided we fall inevitably.

Community Chest

I wonder if Justin Harbord, this year's Community Chest campaign manager, is aware that most mill workers earn considerably more than teachers over the yearly period. "Some store workers" is vague but I am sure that some store workers' wages are far above the average teachers'.

I wonder also how much electricians, carpenters, plumbers, etc., contributed. If facts are to be published then let all the facts be published—not just those which seem to be pointed.

Millstream Road

In support of the letter by G. F. Beale in the Colonist of July 19, "Millstream Road," I would like to add that if Millstream Road were straightened, widened and paved it could:

1. Lessen the fire hazard in Millstream and the Highland District.
2. Become one of the delights of tourists arriving in Sidney for a day's outing to take in the Butchart Gardens, Millstream Road, Langford, Goldstream Flats, the Malahat, the ferry to Brentwood and back to Sidney.
3. By increasing pleasure value for the tourists in this way Sidney and Langford would benefit.
4. It would also be a short cut much needed for those wanting to go from East and West Saanich and Sidney to the Trans-Canada Highway and Langford or vice versa.
5. There is a lack of such roads at present suitable for such travel.
6. Because of careless drivers, logging and other trucks, the narrow winding road is becoming increasingly dangerous. Although it is much better than 10 years ago, there are many more people attempting to travel upon it.

The road was, near the Saanich end, difficult to even find a few years ago. I wonder why it has not been straightened and widened when such a road is needed to cross from Langford to Saanich and Sidney?

Negro Minister to Preach On Racial Relationships

Courageous Rescue Bid Ends in Death for Two

ANDERSON, S.C. (UPI) — The courageous efforts of a white man to save a 12-year-old negro boy from drowning in a lake near here ended in death for both of them.

Herman Griffin, 27, had pulled young Ezelle Williams to within 10 feet of shore when the boy's frenzied struggles dragged them both under. Griffin heard the boy scream for help after his companions pushed him from a boat. He shouted, "I'll save you," and dove in.

THE VOICE OF ONE

By REV. DR. FRANK S. MORLEY

A character is a direction, not an achievement. No man has achieved a good character if he thinks he has achieved a good character. A bad man is one who is becoming worse; a good man is one who is becoming better. No man is a Christian, as Luther said, he is always becoming a Christian. In what direction is Canada pointed?

Sometimes we talk as if luxury and comfort were the true ends of life. We are steeped in a sensual, barbarian culture. Our advertisements are sensual and greedy. We watch juvenile delinquency with grandfatherly indulgence.

Our radio and television are filled with intellectual anesthetic and we criticize bitterly the efforts of CBC to promote cultural programs. We strive to keep religion off the air. Our suicide rate and alcoholism are among the highest in the world. We lack self-confidence in our nationality, so that usually orthodox means holding the same opinions as the British or American government, depending on our origins.

If this were all one saw in the Canadian national character, however, he would be blind and evil-hearted. No where in the world is government more democratic than this unique responsible government.

Dynamic Democracy

The kindness in Canadian life is astonishing. Nowhere in the world will you find a greater exhibition of tolerance than that between French and English in Canada. Despite our vast territory and variety of races, we have not split into numerous political parties, exploiting our tensions and differences in attitudes and needs.

Where is a land of greater opportunity? For example, take Mr. Crump, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway. At the age of 16 he began work as an apprentice mechanic at Revelstoke, got his high school education by study at night school, and finally obtained a master's degree in mechanical engineering.

Sip on Quiet Front

Cool sip on a quiet front quenches thirst of American soldier John Thomas while asidone donkey near a Lebanon airport. Hot weather and lots of time give most troops in strife-torn nation opportunity to soak up sunshine and go swimming.

Wrong, Says Union

'Fear of Violence' Remark Refuted

Executive and members of the CPR Maintenance Workers Union, Local 493, yesterday "disassociated themselves" from a recent "fear of violence" statement by one of their members.

Vincent Shandley, 847 Old Esquimalt Road, had told The Daily Colonist, the maintenance men would return to work on two ships now sold by the CPR if they could be "guaranteed protection" from striking Seafarers' International Union men.

Executives and members of his union met yesterday morning and drafted a statement.

It said there was never any threat of violence from anyone in respect to crossing picket lines and "the statements made in public were unwarranted and incorrect."

"The Canadian Labor Congress and the B.C. Federation of Labor will not tolerate at any time the use of violence by any of its affiliates (of which the SIU is one)," the statement said.

Mr. Shandley had said the maintenance men wanted to go back to work.

His union in the statement protested the quoting of "information gained from an unauthorized individual."

Newfoundland May Get $8,000,000 More Aid

ATTAWA (CP) — A three-man royal commission yesterday recommended that Newfoundland receive additional federal assistance totalling $8,000,000 in the fiscal year 1957-58.

It recommended that the so-called federal transitional grants should be deducted from the annual $8,000,000 figure for a four-year period starting April 1, 1957.

The additional assistance for the fiscal year starting April 1, 1957, would be $6,600,000.

Additional assistance for the fiscal year starting April 1, 1958, would be $6,550,000. It would be $7,300,000 for the year starting April 1, 1959, and $7,650,000 for the following year—increasing as the transitional grants decrease.

Starting April 1, 1961, the additional assistance would be $8,000,000 annually. This compares with additional assistance of $17,000,000 asked by Newfoundland during the hearings of the commission.

TERMS OF UNION

The transitional grants from the federal treasury, amounting to $40,000,000, were provided as part of the terms of Confederation under which Newfoundland—then a British colony—joined Canada April 1, 1949. They were designed to facilitate the adjustment of Newfoundland to the status of a province.

12-YEAR PERIOD The $40,000,000 is being paid over a 12-year period. The grants end with the $350,000 payment for the April 1, 1960, fiscal year.

The commission was appointed Feb. 21, 1957, by the former Liberal government as part of the terms of Confederation.

Purpose of the commission was to recommend any additional financial assistance that might be needed to enable Newfoundland to continue public services at levels reached subsequent to Confederation, without resulting in taxation generally more burdensome than that in the other three Atlantic seaboard provinces.

Jung to Clarify Statement Soon

OTTAWA — Douglas Jung, Progressive Conservative MP for Vancouver Centre, said yesterday he plans to make an early Commons statement on controversial remarks attributed to him in Paris earlier this month, and later criticized by Liberal Senator J. W. deB. Farris in a statement in which he referred to the MP as "this Chinaman."

Madrigal Lovers Thrill To Accomplished Singers

By BERT BINNY
There were few empty seats in Victoria College auditorium last night for the concert by the University of Washington Madrigal Singers.

This is the same group that provided such an excellent recital last year. Six of last year's performers were back, including director Gerald Keeley. Three groups of madrigals were sung. Soloists were Geraldine Neim, mezzo-soprano, accompanied by Robert Scandrett and David Sannerud, pianists. Most of the madrigals were of the 16th and 17th centuries when inability to sing could easily cause some misgivings as to upbringings.

The University of Washington singers would certainly cause no such misgivings—then or now.

The Victoria College Summer Session continues its program tonight when three honor plays, two from Victoria and one from Lake Cowichan, will be presented at Oak Bay Junior High School. Curtain time is 8 p.m.

STOP SCALP ITCH
Glover's Mange Medication stops itchy scalp, removes dandruff, soothes scalp, kills itching bugs. Unlike hair cream and hair oil, Glover's is a real medicine made like a doctor's prescription. Contains sulphur, zinc and soothing oils that really stimulate the scalp and cleanse away scales. Try Glover's once—Mange Medication works—then shampoo. You'll see and feel your hair and scalp COMPLETELY REVITALIZED. It's it gone. Shampoo is checked. Hair stops coming out because your scalp can "breathe" again. Glover's Mange Medication at all drug stores. Money back guarantee.

'Fatty' Taunt Annoys Heir to the Throne

LONDON — Prince Charles, 9, was in "a spot of bother" with a schoolmate during a recent soccer game.

One of his schoolmates found he was being trodden on by a royal foot. It is reported that the prince, which will doubtless go down in the family history, the classmate protested: "Hey, get off, fatty!"

"In the scuffle which followed the well-built heir to the throne made it quite clear that he preferred to be called 'Charlie'."

NAPLES, Italy — Lady Nuala Docker has been acquitted of charges of insulting a customs guard on the Isle of Capri because the word she used was not in the English language.

FREDERICTON — The late R. B. Bennett was the "second greatest Canadian politician of the 20th century," and "has always been deliberately obscured by the Liberals," his biographer said Thursday.

Biographer Ernest Watkins of Calgary ranks the late Conservative prime minister next to Sir Wilfrid Laurier in political stature.

OTTAWA — Resources Minister Alvin Hamilton, reporting on the Geneva sea conference, said the West "is winning the battle for the minds of men" and "India, Pakistan, Ceylon, Ghana and the modern Arab states are looking to this country for leadership."

DOVER, England — Bert Thomas, 33, of Portland, Ore., postponed Friday his attempt to swim the English Channel both ways nonstop because of bad weather off the French coast.

VANCOUVER — An 18-year-old Toronto girl has been charged with criminal negligence following a high-speed chase here. Police said Mary McGinnis was arrested by RCMP after a 10-mile city pursuit, during which her car touched speeds up to 90 miles per hour.

LONDON — Another irrigation has been performed on the Queen's sinuses in an effort to speed her recovery from an attack of acute catarrhal sinusitis. The Queen's general condition continues to improve.

LONG BEACH, Calif. — Cindy Conroy of Toronto, Canada's representative in the 1958 Miss Universe contest, was eliminated by the judges in the first round.

VANCOUVER — A nun's starched headress saved her from injury when she was attacked by a man with a knife at a convent here. Sister Mary St. Mark, 30, was struck on the head with the knife and her headress slashed while in the convent garden.

GHENT, Belgium — Prime Minister Diefenbaker will visit the Canadian military cemetery at nearby Adegem.

Ford Tosses Shutout Win; Third in Row

Whitey Ford, who was taking a back seat to Bullet Bob Turley in the early part of the American League schedule, is showing New York Yankees he has lost none of the effectiveness that made him their top pitcher last season.

The 30-year-old lefthander tossed a four-hitter last night as the Yankees blanked Cleveland Indians, 6-0, to extend their league lead to 14½ games. It was the third shutout in a row for Ford and his sixth of the season.

Ford's record is now 13-4 for the season, compared to Turley's 15-3 mark.

Elston Howard's two run homer in the sixth inning broke a scoreless tie for the Yankees.

Lead Aussies

Australia's brilliant brother-sister swimming act of Ilse and John Konrads, shown here during practice at Cardiff's Empire Pool, led Aussies to four British Empire Games titles last night in the windup of swimming and diving competition. Ilse, 14, won a total of two gold medals and the 16-year-old John took three gold awards during the six days.

Five World Records

CARDIFF, Wales—Australia's amazing swimming team, paced by the "whiz kid" Konrads, completed a tremendous assault on world and British Empire Games records at Empire Pool here Friday night by winning

In one of the greatest displays of swimming superiority ever recorded in international competition, the finely conditioned Aussies hit a pre-game prediction right on the nose by winning 11 of the 19 swimming and diving titles at stake.

In addition, Australians placed second six times and picked up five third-place finishes. England provided the biggest thrill for the capacity crowd by setting a world record in the 440-yard medley relay final with a time of 4:55.1, Australia, only a touch behind, also finished under the listed world record of 4:55.1 while Canada's team of Sara Barber, Irene Service, Margaret Iwasaki and Gladys Priestley placed third.

Judy Grinham, world 170-yard backstroke record-holder and first leg of England's team, was clocked in 1:11.9 to equal her mark set two nights before. Monckton, the world record holder in the 110-yard backstroke event, won his specialty in BEG record time of 1:01.7 minutes, 49.4 seconds. She edged out team-mates Dawn Fraser and Lorraine Crapp, the current world record holder.

Australia's classy 440-yard medley relay team of John Monckton, Terry Gathercole, Brian Wilkinson and John Devitt lowered their own world record from 4:19 to 4:14.2 in easily defeating the runner-up Canadian team of Wheaton, Peter Ball, George Park and Cameron Grout. Canada was timed in 4:25.3.

land won six events, scoring a near-sweep in diving competition, and Scotland took the other two gold medals.

Five world records were established in six days of swimming and athletics broke British Empire Games standards almost 40 times. Two world marks were shattered and one equalled last night, boosting the overall BEG total to eight new world records and two marks equalled.

CANADA SURPRISES

While Canada failed to win a swimming gold medal, her athletes turned in a surprisingly strong showing with a hand-picked team of seven men and six women collecting four seconds and four thirds. Victoria's Bob Wheaton won both a silver and bronze medal yesterday.

Hot, Parched West Coast Facing Water Shortage

KYUQUOT — Longest drought in Kyuquot's history is forcing many residents to conserve dwindling fresh water supplies and is also resulting in some water being brought in by boat.

Water level of wells is dropping each day as heat and drying winds continue.

The Canadian Fishing Company has been augmenting its supply with water pumped from the tanks of its fish packers, and the nearby Spring Island loran station, which depends normally on rain water, has had water brought in by the lighthouse and buoy tender Estevan.

The Standard Oil station at Kyuquot supplied water to be transported to Spring Island for a time, but that source has dropped too low to continue the supply.

Dry weather has been accompanied by strong west to northwest winds which have hampered trollers.

$4,000,000 Vote Soon

NANAIMO — Next big bylaw for residents of Nanaimo and the district between Little Qualicum and Cassidy will be the regional hospital construction bylaw.

Estimated cost of a new hospital is $4,000,000. It is hoped that the hospital bylaw can be put within the next six months.

Most difficulties have now been attended to, reported hospital board chairman Russell Inkster.

Passage of a $2,450,000 sewerage construction bylaw in Nanaimo Wednesday will increase taxes to most local residents by $15 to $20 a year.

'Marooned' Group Declines Rescue

CAMPBELL RIVER (CP) — A family believed marooned on an uninhabited island in the Strait of Georgia declined rescue when a tug reached them early yesterday.

A passing tugboat spotted the group at Spillbury Point, on the northern end of Hernando Island, about 100 miles northwest of Vancouver. The tug radioed RCMP at Powell River and John Humphrey of the air-sea rescue service left here by tug to pick up the party.

Humphrey reported to air-sea rescue officials at Vancouver that the group, identified only as Mr. and Mrs. Nord and a child, were not in difficulties and that they planned to continue aboard their small sailboat to Gowan Harbor.

They apparently had gone aground Thursday night, but their boat sustained no damage.

Boat Sliced, Pair Escape

KYUQUOT — Mr. and Mrs. Dermott Walker of Kyuquot escaped unhurt when their open motorboat was sliced in two by the speedboat of fisherman Esko Kayra. The couple swam to shore, but their boat, its motor, sacks of groceries and cement were lost.

B.C. Cake For Reds

NANAIMO, B.C. — So far there have been no orders for samples of Nanaimo's 10,000-pound centennial birthday cake from Russia.

But the executive of the local Canadian Legion branch decided to change that.

They passed the hat around and collected enough money for packaging and mailing a sample to Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

Millions for Grain

OTTAWA (CP) — Government-guaranteed bank loans on farm-stored grain totalled $7,575,779 in the nine-month lending period from Sept. 1 to May 31.

"A CITY SCHOOL IN A COUNTRY SETTING"

Official Reply to Island Douk Threat:

'We'll Wait Till Schools Open'

Government officials said yesterday they would wait until schools open in September before deciding whether to prosecute Sons of Freedom Doukhobors on Vancouver Island for failing to send their children to school.

Joe Podovinkoff of Hilliers, about 25 miles north of Nanaimo, announced yesterday that he has informed RCMP that his group will not comply with a department of education order that they send their children to school this fall.

"The schools won't reopen until September and we will wait until then to see what happens," said an official. "We have to look at each case then, only about half a dozen children will be affected by the order. Since the closing of the Doukhobor school at Hilliers five years ago, children on the 150-acre Doukhobor farm have been following standard elementary school courses by correspondence. Mr. Podovinkoff said the Doukhobors are not with the education department, but feel that it should have a religious basis.

He visited Nanaimo yesterday to discuss the matter with a lawyer. Whether the community will retain legal counsel to represent them in their dispute will be decided shortly by the community council.

UBC Convocation

Princess Accepts Honorary Degree

VANCOUVER (CP) — Princess Margaret stood solemnly before a statue of her late father at the University of British Columbia Friday after accepting an honorary doctor of laws degree.

The statue of George VI, near the war memorial gymnasium where the special convocation was held, was erected last June 28 by the Vancouver branch of the War Amputees of Canada.

The convocation lasted about 20 minutes, after which the Princess appeared on a balcony overlooking the British Empire swimming pool and then walked across the lawn to the statue, flanked by a shallow, kidney-shaped fish pool.

Chatting with B. A. Russell, president of the amputees' Vancouver branch, she told him she liked the setting, "very, very much."

She paused distinctly to stare up at the sombre, bronze representation of King George VI and, while chatting briefly with Mr. Russell her eyes strayed often to the face of the statue and she knotted her fingers nervously.

Only when she turned away, did her usual smile return.

Prior to the actual convocation, the Princess toured part of the campus by car, inspected the new medical building and then walked the short distance to the gymnasium.

Two hundred members of the Royal Canadian Engineers, whose camp she visited in the Fraser Valley Thursday, roped off a pathway between the two buildings.

A crowd of more than 5,000 was waiting for her when she arrived at the gymnasium. Only a few seats were not taken.

The crowds broke into steady applause as Princess Margaret helped Dr. Norman A. MacKenzie, president of the university, adjust the hood. She had been wearing her Beebeater hat and red and purple gown throughout the ceremony.

Dal Grauer, Chancellor of the university, read the dedication of the degree and presented her with her diploma rolled up in a purple tube.

She was the first member of the British Royal family to be so honored here and the only royalty to receive such a degree from the university besides Prince Bernhard of the Netherlands.

In a speech to the assembly, the Princess recognized that the "highest honor a university can bestow upon any person is admission to the degree which you have just now conferred upon me."

Acknowledging the university's contributions to British Columbia and Canada since it was founded 50 years ago, she admonished those connected with it to "consider the future, to lay plans for further progress, to seek yet higher goals" as they celebrate the province's centennial.

"... as British Columbia looks to the future, so must her university. Everyone here has a vision of what this province will become, and expects from its university the wisdom and enterprise which will make this dream a reality."

inside story of out-and-out good service is training. Men at Standard Stations and Chevron Dealers go to school to learn the best ways to care for your car from tires to top. But our training doesn't stop there...

BETTER

We go by the book. When it comes to lubrication, for instance, we have charts that show us how to take care of every make of car, imported and Canadian. They guide us to each grease fitting... and through inspections of tires, transmission, master brake cylinder and the other points that need regular, knowing attention.

CARE OF

This extra care means your car is safe from wear and guaranteed free from squeaks for a full 1,000 miles. It's another reason why every independent survey shows motorists rate the service at the sign of the Chevron "best in the West". And why more Western motorists carry a Chevron International Credit Card for their driving needs.

YOUR CAR

The best way to complete lubrication work is to change oil. We recommend RPM Supreme Motor Oil. Its exclusive Detergent-Action compounding keeps parts so clean, protects them so well, engines can outlast the car itself! Check your sticker, and see if you aren't due for a change to this kind of protection.

'Marguerite' To Rule From Throne

MONTREAL (CP) — Princess Margaret is to reign briefly over Montreal's children from a "Marguerite throne" in La Fontaine Park when she visits here Aug. 6.

The throne will be the color and shape of a daisy, a "Marguerite" in French. Its foam rubber seat will be covered in purple velvet with giant yellow daisy petals forming the back.

Princess Margaret is to spend 20 minutes with the children, 12 of the minutes on the fairland stage.

Every Family Needs Old Maid or Widow

It is a well-known fact that every family needs an old maid or widow. This is because they are the only ones who can be trusted to take care of the family. They are the only ones who are not afraid of the dark. They are the only ones who are not afraid of the unknown. They are the only ones who are not afraid of the future.

SPONGING ON YOUR MAKE UP

Make up is an important part of a woman's life. It is a way to make yourself feel better. It is a way to make yourself look better. It is a way to make yourself feel like a queen. It is a way to make yourself look like a queen.

If you think your family might be related to a clan why not check in the "Scottish Clans" an attractive, colorful illustrated book listing the various clans and their history.

The book is a beautiful work of art. It is a book that every family should have. It is a book that every family should have.

Around Town

Feel Thirsty? So Are Birds

Thirsty? So are the birds. And dogs, and cats.

Officials of the SPCA yesterday suggested, as an act of kindness, that whenever possible residents of Greater Victoria place pans of drinking water out for wild birds and domestic pets.

A shady spot for the water is best, but in any event it would be well to change the water now-and-then.

About 30 high-spirited young Baptist boys and girls and eight counsellors from Washington visited Victoria briefly Thursday, aboard a big power yacht, the Maxine, owned by Rollo Maubly of Everett, Wash. They are camping for a week "primitive style" on Henry Island in the San Juan Islands.

City public works committee Thursday voted 2 to 1 to do nothing about a complaint of cars blocking driveways while waiting to enter a car-wash establishment, but the minority—Ald. Hugh Ramsay—asked council yesterday to authorize placing of signs prohibiting stopping or standing in front of the nearest service station driveway or the car-wash building. Problem was referred back to committee.

The last 72 years have brought great, but not complete, change to Victoria, according to Seabury Cone Mastick, 87, of Pleasantville, N.Y., who is making his first visit to the city since 1886.

Chiefly, the retired lawyer-banker remembers the beauty and easy-living tempo of that long-ago Victoria. He is happy to find that both have survived the years.
